FAN Awareness Webinars

This is a one-hour overview of the Facilitating Attuned Interactions (FAN) model for reflective practice.

Reflective Practice is a relationship-based approach that helps you process emotionally intrusive work, especially in fields like human services and the court system. It provides a way to examine your experiences, feelings, and responses so you can evaluate your performance and improve for the future.

This webinar will cover:

- Why reflective practice is important for helping professionals
- The core components of the FAN model and FAN training
- The Nebraska Center on Reflective Practice (NCRP), its training programs, and reflective consultation
